BURLEY CUBS GONE FOR EIGHT DAYS.

The local Ohio State League team leaves today for an eight-day trip up the river. They will cross bats with the Portsmouth Cobblers and the Charleston Senators while they are gone. Manager Devore is confident of taking the series from the Portsmouth aggregation and will at least get a split with the Senators. While at Portsmouth the locals will participate in Loyalty Day, a day when the fans of the River City are to turn out in a body and pull for their team. Over 1,800 tickets have already been sold and it will be some crowd. President Thomas Russell, of this city, and others, have received invitations to attend the big game and no doubt several of the Maysville fans will be there. The Cubs have every chance to come home near to top of the race, and will do so if they play the kind of ball they have been putting up for the past few days.

WILL TAKE TRIP EAST TOMORROW.

Messrs. John Clark, Thelma Owens, Richard Devore, William Weis and C. D. Asbury will leave for the east tomorrow. The party will see the sights of New York and other points of interest. Mr. Devore will remain and take a course in optics in a leading college. The others of the party will return in about two weeks.

A better proof of Mr. O'Hare's ability as an editor could not be found. He is another example of "The Man from Maysville" who is making good.

GREAT CONTEST BOOMING —CANDIDATES ALL HUSTLING

POPULAR AND ENERGETIC YOUNG LADIES CONTINUE TO PILE UP FREE VOTES IN THE GRANDST AND MOST LIBERAL VOTING CONTEST EVER CONDUCTED BY ANY NEWSPAPER IN NORTH-EASTERN KENTUCKY.

New Candidates Entering Daily—Cut the Coupon From This Issue, The Daily Bulletin or Public Ledger, and Send It To the Contest Manager—Every Vote Counts In This Race—All Votes Are Free—Watch Tomorrow's Issue For Special Announcement.

In presenting the standing of the candidates in the greatest popularity contest ever conducted in northeastern Kentucky, it will be interesting alike to patrons and candidates to note that many changes have been made in the relative position of many of the candidates.

The well laid plans and energetic campaigns of the leaders are bearing good fruit and the votes cast is a good indication that all can do as well. In every community there is a golden opportunity for some energetic woman to enter the contest with enthusiasm and win the honor of being awarded a valuable prize.

There are many ways in which a candidate can secure the aid of friends, principal of which is a personal call upon them. The leader in the campaign for votes have many of their friends aiding and assisting them in many ways. Each person has a circle of friends who are always glad to render any aid and by enlisting the co-operation of a large number of persons in such a campaign the circle or sphere of the influence of the candidates is increased and that is what gives the candidates a backing that can be depended upon for a great number of votes.

New Candidates Enter. With the passing of each day the interest in the Daily Bulletin and Public Ledger great free vote contest is growing. Every day new candidates file their nomination and enter the contest, and there are still plenty of opportunities for many more.

In nearly every district there is an unusual opportunity for some enterprising and popular young lady to enter the contest and secure enough popular free votes to insure her being chosen as a winner of one of the grand prizes.

The Votes and Candidates.

The popular free votes are pouring into the office in such a stream that it keeps an augmented force of clerks busy all day and far into the night crediting them to the candidates. The votes shown in Tuesday's list are those received up to 11 o'clock Monday. The revised list is published twice a week and every patron has the opportunity of nominating a friend or if so desired, can place your own name before the voters. Nominations are free. Votes are free and the magnificent list of prizes will be absolutely given away. See the voting schedules published on another page.

If there is anything about the contest that you do not understand, write, call on or telephone to the Contest

Manager, for he will be pleased to give your requests prompt attention. The nomination coupons will appear only for a few days, and only a limited number of nominations will be accepted. Cut the nomination blank from this issue and send it to the Contest Manager with your name or the name and address of your favorite candidate. A subscription is not necessary, but a good start means much. The name of the person making the nomination will not be divulged if so requested.

Orders for the prizes will be given the successful contestants at the close of the contest; same may be used by the contestant herself or disposed of in any way she may see fit.

Any lady residing in the territory hereafter mentioned is eligible to compete in this contest.

Any one who desires to vote in this contest may do so by coupons clipped from the Daily Bulletin-Public Ledger and by special vote ballots obtained by subscribing to the Daily Bulletin-Public Ledger. The ballots secured by subscribing to the Daily Bulletin-Public Ledger may be held as long as desired and voted at any time up to the close of the contest, but coupons cut from the Daily Bulletin-Public Ledger are only good for six days from publication, and will not be counted if voted after the date printed on the ballots.

Persons living in one district are not confined to voting for ladies in their own particular district, but may vote for anybody in the race.

This affords the young women of Maysville and outside territory an excellent opportunity to receive valuable presents.

Open Evenings. For the benefit of those who are able to get to this office during business hours, the contest department will be open every evening until 8 o'clock.

YOUNG GIRL DROWNS

In Licking River—Miss Stacie Cheatman, of Carlisle, Meets Death.

Last Monday Miss Stacie Cheatman, accompanied by a party of young friends, left their home in Carlisle as Camp Fire Girls, chartered by Miss Nell Williams and Miss Edith Colvin, to spend several week camping on the Licking river.

While boating Tuesday Miss Cheatman's brother fell in the water and in an attempt to save him, she was drowned.

Miss Cheatman was 15 years of age and had a great many friends in this vicinity who will be shocked to learn of her untimely death.

SOCIAL NEWS.

Late in the afternoon the guests departed, all declaring Miss Smith a most charming hostess.

WILHOIT AND PERKINS WITHDRAW.

Mr. Roy Wilhoit and Mr. J. M. Perkins have withdrawn from the race for the Republican nomination for auditor and this leaves Mr. E. A. Weber, of Newport, the only candidate for this office, but owing to the fact that the primary ballots have already been printed, the names of all three, Mr. Wilhoit, Mr. Perkins and Mr. Weber, will appear on the ballot. It will be necessary, therefore, for the Republicans to vote for Mr. Weber, for while he is the only candidate remaining for the office of auditor, the fact that the other two names will appear on the ballot makes it necessary that voters cast their ballots for Mr. Weber and none should be cast for either Mr. Wilhoit or Mr. Perkins, as they have withdrawn. It is important that Republicans take note of this.

GETTING BALLOT BOXES READY FOR SATURDAY.

County Clerk James Owens is busy getting the ballot boxes ready for the primary election Saturday. The vote after that day, it is said, will be the largest ever polled in this county. Several races for local offices are warm and it is hard to tell who will get the bacon. Since Bosworth has withdrawn from the Governor's race, many of his followers in this county have declared their intention of casting their vote for McChesney. If this is done, Stanley will have a hard time carrying this county, as the two candidates are nip and tuck and every vote will look large.

NOT NEAR STARVATION YET

Every time a pessimist wails that the world is going to ruin because a great natural resource is becoming exhausted, someone nobody ever heard of pops up with an improvement on nature.

You never heard of Tuncichi Fujiyama of Tokyo, did you? The other day the United States granted him a patent. It covers a process of "fixing" nitrogen, or making that gas combine with other substance to form a stable compound.

Perhaps that doesn't sound sensible or even important. Let's see.

Without fixing nitrogen we would all starve to death—and the pessimists would win. Nitrogen is common enough. Four-fifths of the air we breathe is nitrogen. But it is almost the hardest of all the elements to trap and tame and set to work—to "fix," as the scientists put it. It is so violently opposed to every form of bondage that in many of the compounds a spark or a slight jar will break the ties that hold the nitrogen. When that happens, look out! These unstable nitrogen compounds are the dynamite, melinite, cordite and other high explosives with which men are killing each other today across the ocean. The expansive force of freed nitrogen gas is what hurls the bullet and bursts the bomb.

But this liberty-loving gas is a lifegiver as well as a death-dealer. It is essential to all plant growth. No nitrogen, no food. How to replace in the soil the nitrogen the plants take out is mankind's biggest problem today. Some plants, like clover and alfalfa, draw it from the air and leave part of it in the ground. Most of the restoration, however, has to be made by means of nitrate fertilizers.

When it was found the nitrate beds of Chile, for years the world's chief source of fertilizers, were becoming exhausted a great English scientist predicted universal starvation in a century or two unless the atmospheric nitrogen could be utilized instead. A way to do this was found—by literally melting the air in an electric furnace. Heated to a certain point, the nitrogen combines with other substances. Huge hydro-electric plants in Norway and Iceland are making nitrates out of air for fertilizers and for explosives.

Now the Japanese inventor finds electricity isn't necessary. He passes nitrogen over heated carbides and it combines with them. The chemical reaction itself produces heat enough to keep the process going as long as fresh carbide is fed in. Carbides are cheap and plenty, and the air is full of nitrogen.

We are still a long way from starvation!

The Indiana election law says: "When the voter is in the election booth, the lower limbs of the voter must be plainly visible to the election officer." We do not recall whether Indiana has woman's suffrage or not.

Mr. Papatakaptulapuros, of Chicago, whose name looks like an alphabetical procession wants to have it changed to Papataka. Are there any objections? Hearing none it is so ordered.

No matter how much a wife may like to see her husband well groomed, somehow it always gives her a cold shock when he comes home with a bright new pink polish on his finger nails.

It is true that Liberty Bell is only half cracked but that is nothing to worry about for there are lots of people in the same condition who still make a lot of noise.

Italy has not declared war against Germany nor has Germany declared war against Italy, but that is a small detail which will be attended to later.

"The Russian armies are now on the Bug," says a headline. But how can they be there when all the reports agree that they are on the run.

When a man tells girl that she is too good for him, somehow it always gives him a severe shock to discover that she thinks so too.

A New York paper says that city has the smallest donkey in the world. Yes, and it can boast of having many of the largest.

VERONA.

Washington, D. C.—"Immediately inside the Italian border below the Austrian city of Trent, lies the wealthy, ancient city of Verona, an important railway center, a treasury of art, a museum of splendid remains from Roman times through all Italian periods, and altogether one of the most beautiful and interesting cities of northern Italy," according to the geographic statement issued by the National Geographic Society today, which deals with the most recent of hostile frontiers in Europe. "Verona is a fortress of the first-class," the statement continues, "and one of the foremost military centers toward the Austrian frontier. In peace times, a garrison of more than 6,000 men is stationed here, and here are located the administration offices of Italy's Third Army Corps.

"Verona is less than ten miles distant from the Austrian frontier, from that part of the Austrian Tyrol that projects as a deep wedge into the north Italian hill country. It lies seventy-one miles west of Venice by rail and ninety-three miles east of Milan, another great northern railway center, on both banks of the rapid Adige river. It is 194 feet above sea level, with the main and older part of the city lying within an abrupt loop made by the river. The population of the city, with its suburbs, is about 80,000. The main railway lines from Modena and Mantua to Trent and Bozen, and from Venice to Milan cross in the city. The Verona, Venice, Portogruaro line parallels the Austrian frontier and has many strategic branches of much the same value to the Italians in their present struggle as the Posen-Tilsit line is to the Germans in their defense of their eastern frontier.

"Verona must be the immediate objective of any invasion from the Trentino salient. From Verona west, the trunkline railway leads through a rich industrial and farming region to the great northern towns of Milan and Turin. To the east lies Venice, and to the south are a constellation of thriving manufacturing towns. The frontier before Verona is strongly fortified, both on the Italian and Austrian sides. In recent years, a wide-flung circle of forts, far outside of the obsolete city walls, were begun as a new scheme for the city's defense. The building of these redoubts raised Verona to the position of a fortress of first rank.

"The beginnings of the Veronese fortifications that still remain standing today date from 1527, when Verona was surrounded with new walls and bastions by Sanmicheli. Following the Congress of Vienna, Verona fell to Austria's share, and the Austrians caused the city to be strongly fortified. The Austrians further fortified Peschiera, Mantua and Legnago, forming the famous 'Quadrilateral,' upon which powerful series of fortresses the Austrian rule in Italy relied for its principal support until 1866. Verona is the key position to northern Italy.

"Both prosperous and progressive, the city has multiplied its industrial endeavor many times during the last score years. Today there are large paper and cotton mills in the city, an immense nail factory and piano and organ factories. There is, also, a significant manufacture of war munitions centered here, extensive artillery establishments and important arsenals. Among the other more important manufactures are silks, soap, candles and sugar. Verona had a large and growing agricultural commerce, being one of the first Italian centers of traffic with Austria-Hungary, Switzerland and Germany. It exported wines, fruits, rice and marble, and, twice each year it held a noted horse market.

"A city of wonderful art works, of weather-stained, white marble palaces, often richly sculptured and sometimes showing the worn evidences of sumptuous paintings, with impressive, well-preserved ruins from the days of before the Christian era, Verona has somewhat the appearance of luxurious decay, with which a confident, pushing, success-breathing spirit of the last few years has contrasted sharply. The museums, picture galleries, libraries and ancient churches of Verona teem with rare treasures. Verona was the birthplace of the famous Romans, Catullus, Cornelius Nepos, Pliny the Younger and Vitruvius."

ENGLAND CHECKMATES WILSON.

Washington.—England's course in advising this government that another note regarding the now famous Order in Council is being prepared and in requesting that the communication recently received be withheld from publication until the supplementary note is received is an occasion of considerable embarrassment to President Wilson. Mr. Wilson purposed to follow the last note to Germany with one of equal vigor to England thus believing that he could dispel the impression that he was in any degree partisan in his insistence that Americans be free to sail the high seas in the ships of belligerents as well as in those of American registry, and on ships carrying contraband cargoes as well as those carrying none. The note to England had already been drafted when the announcement of a supplementary communication came from that country and necessitated at least a temporary suspension of the note this country had under preparation. There is much speculation here, but no knowledge regarding the views which England purposed to set forth in this supplement. There is some reason for believing, however, that the British government may be preparing to abandon the long-range blockade and to substitute for it a material increase in the proclaimed contraband of war, including cotton. The British ambassador has been studying precedents set by this country and has advised his government that the United States has established a precedent for making cotton contraband.

RECORD OF THE PAST

No Stronger Evidence Can Be Had In Maysville

Look well to their record. What they have done many times in years gone by is the best guarantee of future results. Anyone with a bad back; any reader suffering from urinary troubles, from kidney ills, should find comforting words in the following statement.

Mrs. John Burns, Maysville, says: "I was subject to severe spells of backache and kidney trouble. They came on every three or six months and at times I was confined to bed and almost helpless. I used Doan's Kidney Pills and they gave me quick benefit. Since then when I have noticed slight return attacks of backache, I have used Doan's Kidney Pills and they have never failed to quickly check the trouble."

OVER SEVEN YEARS LATER Mrs. Burns said: "The statement I gave before praising Doan's Kidney Pills still holds good. I know that this medicine acts as represented."

VENICE.

Washington, D. C.—There are numerous things of priceless value to the world upon the threatened frontiers of the warring countries, and among the richest of these treasures is Venice, the dream of generations of tourists, of students of art and history, and of lovers of romance and beauty. Few cities in the world receive veneration from more widely scattered sources, and few stir so many pleasant anticipations on the eve of a first visit to them. This year, however, the city will be deserted by its visitors. Venice, a honeymoon objective and the tourists' earliest sea aspiration, has become an objective for Austrian air fleets and battleships. Something of the charm of this city of world-pilgrimage is told by one of its most noted friends, Karl Stieler, whose picture of the Queen of the Adriatic forms the basis of a bulletin just issued by the National Geographic Society. He writes:

"Before the Campanile, we realize for the first time the wide-spread power of Venice, that fairy city which sprang not from the earth, but the sea; still touched with the glamour of the East, and yet mistress of all western culture—so rich in arts and arms, in loves and hatreds! Venice is a sphinx whose enigma we never wholly penetrate. In vain we strive to find an image that shall express her mysterious essence. The unique brooks no comparisons.

"As in the old times, even so today, the center of life and movement is the Piazza of St. Mark's, although it offers but a pale shadow of the life of former days. Here on sunny mornings all the foreigners assemble; here lounge the clerical, and on the neighboring piazzetta the gondoliers. Itinerant vendors of all kinds push their way among the chairs that are set out in front of the cafes under the open arcade.

"But the most brilliant spectacle is at night, when hundreds of gas-jets are alight in the huge bronze candelabra, when the gold sparkles in the jeweler's windows and the sound of gay music is borne across the piazza. Then the crowd gathers from all sides. Here come the nobles with their wives. The gondoliers throng to the piazzetta, and the merceria seems far too narrow for the press of people.

"The noise and the passion which runs through the publicity of Italian life continue deep into the night; then last hasty words are spoken, yet one more stolen glance is shot from beautiful eyes and the happy individual for whom it is intended understands the farewell. Around the steps of the piazzetta—all of white marble, so that you can not miss them, even at night—the gondoliers gather again and then separate on their different ways through the dark and dead-silent canals.

"St. Mark's stands alone among all the temples of the world. Although age and the moist sea air have spread their veil over these walls, yet the brilliant coloring and the mighty outlines shine through all the gray dimness of the past. The bronze horses above the great door are rearing; the puppets and arches stretch their great curves in intensity of power; each portion of the great building seems alive and animated; yet in the whole reigns the profound and noble peace proper to the house of God.

"It is now exactly 800 years ago since the building of St. Mark's was completed; its ecclesiastical sanctity is bestowed on it by the relics of the great evangelist; its historical sanctity consists in its intimate connection with the fortunes of the city and of her rulers. It was the theater of their triumphs and the refuge for their cares; all that she has achieved and suffered Venice has done under the protecting wing of St. Mark.

"The Church of St. Mary contains trophies from all parts of the world; every stone has a history. Those two great pillars at the entrance to the baptistry were part of the booty of Acre. The bronze folding doors were once in the Church of St. Sophia at Stamboul. The marble columns, which stand right and left of the main portal, are said to have been taken from the Temple in Jerusalem. The famous group of four horses, which stands above the main portal, is of the antique Roman period and was for a long time in Byzantium, the capital of the Empire of the West. The Doge Dandolo, at the age of 95, led the Venetians to the storming of Constantinople (1203). He was nearly blind, but a fiery life still glowed in his veins.

"What St. Mark's is as the expression of the religious spirit, that the Ducal Palace is for the secular power of Venice; it has scarcely a rival, even in Italy. The Doge's Palace, as it now stands before us, was begun in the fourteenth century and completed in the fifteenth, after a long interruption. Here every line is classic. The very position of the palace, its relation to the Church of St. Mark, its two fronts—one commanding the piazzetta and the other the sea—declare the inner significance of the building; it is the foundation, the very cornerstone of all Venetian splendor.

"But yet a little shadow rests on these splendors. A slight shudder mars the enchantment, for the hands of Venice are stained with blood—much noble blood sacrificed to unworthy passions. There is the Bocca di Leone, into which envy threw its secret accusations. Here sat the Council of Ten, Consiglio de' Dieci. There was a word of terror to all citizens of Venice. In this tribunal she had a power which could only be compared with that of Robespierre or the bloodthirsty Marat.

"The complete truth about Venice can not be learned in the lofty Ducal Palace, where the ceilings are full of gold and where art, free and untrammelled, created her masterpieces. We must go down even as far as the Pozzi, into the dungeons below the level of the water, or we must mount into the hot leaden cells (the Piombi); then we begin to conceive what was the secret canker gnawing at the root of all this beauty; then we feel with unspeakable horror what is the shadow on the conscience of the proud Queen of the Adriatic.

WHERE WILL THE FUNDS COME FROM?

Washington.—If the Democratic majorities should heed the President's recommendation and provide for an increased military establishment, there will be no way to pay the bills save by an issue of bonds. The Treasury is empty now. It was possible somewhat to juggle the figures to hide the actual deficit at the end of the fiscal year, but the daily Treasury statement shows, at least to the initiated, the actual conditions. The general balance in the Treasury amounts to only $67,000,000 of which $46,000,000 is on deposit in national banks and practically all the balance consists of subsidiary silver coins and silver bullion, none of which is available to pay bills. It is merely the change which Uncle Sam must keep in his cash box. The deficit for last year, leaving out that on the Panama Canal, exceeded $55,000,000. The deficit for this year, thus far, already amounts to $17,000,000, with the prospect of a deficit of $115,000,000 for the full fiscal year. The funds in national banks are being steadily withdrawn. This, it is stated, is in the interest of the Federal Reserve Bank, but probably is merely to fill the deficit in the cash box. In any event, it means a loss to the government of the 2 per cent interest which the national banks have been paying on these deposits, as the Federal Reserve Bank will not pay interest even if there are funds to deposit in it. This condition of the government's finances means that the administration will be compelled soon to borrow money for ordinary expenses, that is to sell bonds. And it also means that there must be an increase of taxes. The additional taxes may be called "treasury taxes," although the United States is not at war, but they should be called "deficit taxes," and the people should realize that the necessity for them arises from Democratic mismanagement.

ULTIMATUM TO BE SENT MEXICO

Washington, August 3.—An ultimatum to establish peace in Mexico will be sent to General Villa, Zapata and Carranza as soon as possible after Thursday's conference between Secretary of State Lansing and the diplomatic representatives of Argentina, Brazil, Chile, Bolivia, Uruguay and Guatemala.

In order to reduce freight charges California wine is to be shipped to New York in a specially designed tank steamer very similar to an oil freighter. The boat will make six trips a year and will transport 4,800,000 gallons in that time.

"GRODNO"

Washington, D. C.—"Among the great fortresses that are opposing the march of German armies into Russian lands is that of Grodno, a stronghold on the main railway to Petrograd from the west, and one of the most powerful lines guarding the line of the Muscovite frontier," says a statement issued by the National Geographic Society. Grodno is on the line of advance from the lake region in East Prussia, and lies about 50 miles from the German border. It is 540 miles southwest of Petrograd, 98 miles southwest of Vilna, and 160 miles northwest of Warsaw. It is an objective of German invasion from the north, while it, also, is nearly due north of the Austro-German columns invading from the south.

"About 110 miles south of Grodno, lies the Russian frontier, Brest Litewski, guarding the trunkline railway, Warsaw-Moscow. The cutting of these two great railroad arteries has been, likely, the main object of all recent, Austro-German endeavor in Russian Poland. The trunkline from Petrograd through Vilna, Grodno, Brest Litewski, to Warsaw, and beyond Warsaw to Skiersniewice, a place recently captured by the Germans, where it sends three main branches to Germany, to Thorn in the north, to Kalisz and Lissa in the west, and through Czenstochowa to Cracow and Koensha in the south. These three railway arteries, between Warsaw and Petrograd, and Warsaw and Moscow, are the Muscovite avenues for pouring men and supplies into Russian Poland and toward the western and southwestern frontiers.

"The works of the frontier fortress have been considerably strengthened during recent years. The city is the capital of the government of Grodno, and is situated on the River Niemen. It is the headquarters of Russia's 11 Army Corps. The city, itself, is very poorly built, though it has a good trade in grain, timber and meats. It has a population of some 42,000 of which two-thirds is Jewish. There are important machinery, firearms, tobacco and vehicle factories in Grodno, and the output of these factories was enormously increased by the war. Grodno is rich in Polish history. Here the second partition of Poland was effected in 1793; here Stanislaus Poniatowski, the last king of the Poles, resigned his crown in 1795. The Polish king, Stephen Bathory, made Grodno his capital, and in 1586 the town has been battered by many an enemy, since its foundation in the 12th century."

GROUND FOR SUSPICION.

Washington.—In view of the condition of the Treasury which convicts the Democrats of incompetence, it is hardly surprising that there should be serious suspicion in some quarters that the administration is preparing to take steps to hide the evidence. What could be easier than to intervene in Mexico, make such intervention the occasion of greatly increased expenditures for the army and navy, to explain to the people that the sale of bonds and the increase of taxes are necessitated by the military operations and thus to blind many at least of the voters to the fact that the administration had emptied the Treasury before it had expended anything unusual for the army and navy? How many of the voters will recall that had it not been for the unreasonable hostility of the Wilson administration to Huerta thousands of American and hundreds of thousands of Mexican lives would have been saved and there would have been no necessity for increased taxes in Mexico? How many voters will recall that the Wilson administration put no faith in the insurgents whether they were Carranzistas or Villistas? How many voters will remember that nothing but failure of the Underwood tariff bill to produce revenue and reckless and unfeeling expenditures by an administration Democratic in both the White House and Congress emptied the Treasury and left the government with these questions will depend the verdict of the voters in November, 1916.

AFTER TELLING US TO GO TO HELL, VILLA RELENTS.

El Paso, Texas, August 3.—Suddenly relenting in his burst of hostility against the United States, General Francisco Villa has decided to make satisfactory terms with all foreign business men in the state of Chihuahua, Mexico. According to George C. Carothers, special agent of the State Department, who arrived from Chihuahua City, declared that Villa had confiscated a considerable amount of American owned property. Villa is believed to be in Juarez now.

VILLA COLUMN DESTROYED.

Galveston, Texas, August 3.—A cablegram received here today from Vera Cruz announced that Villa's flying column under General Plerros, which was defeated at Pachuca was completely destroyed yesterday when it was caught between the forces of the United States and the forces of the United States army of General Obregon and the pursuing army of General Diaz.

During the calendar year of 1913 there were 2,765 men killed in and about the coal mines of our country. Based on an output of 579,448,125 short tons in 1913, five men were killed for every 1,000,000 tons. The number does not seem to be materially lessening.

One Englishman is said to have named his oldest son Lyphyl Yderal Odn Nestor, Egbert Lyonel Toedmas Hugh Erekenwys, Saxon Esa Orme Cromwell Nevil Dyarrt Plantagenet, and another to have named his with one for every letter of the alphabet "Z" being represented by Zeus.

MOSCOW.

Washington.—"Deep in the heart of European Russia, more than 700 miles from the German frontier, guarded over the intervening space by lake country, marshes and innumerable riverways, always certain of reinforcement by the bleakest of winter weather, with its heavy, blinding drift of snow, is Moscow, the old capital of Russia, the city against whose walls the craft of Napoleon smashed. Moscow seems more secure from war horrors and devastation than any other metropolis within the confines of the fighting nations," begins a bulletin describing the most Russian of Russian cities, issued today by the National Geographic Society, at Washington.

"Moscow belongs alike to the Orient and the Occident, more, however, to the east than to the west. It is further east than Jerusalem, and behind it extends a vast, sparsely settled, half-civilized, limitless little known region, sweeping the Arctic sea to our west and China. Moscow is the pulse of this vast and undeveloped region, and through it have flowed endless streams of pioneers in peace times, on the mission of civilization to the bleak northern plains and their Asiatic natives. To the Russian, Moscow is a sacred city; to the stranger, it is a city of surpassing beauty, both in its heart and soul of Russia.

"Irregularly built, the intricate and uncommonly involved plan of this mighty city adds to its charm upon acquaintance. Its streets are one of its most trying experiences to the foreigner, mostly badly paved and filled with 'raias,' as the cab drivers call the sharp projecting stones over which their ancient droshkies lurch. Then, too, the magnificent and the sordid are oddly mingled in the city's architecture, and besides the wonderful cathedral and the impressive government buildings, one sees the mean buildings of poverty. The peasant, the gentleman and the millionaire are inextricably mixed up in external Moscow.

"Moscow is a city of churches. Their brilliantly colored tower domes, striking bulbous affairs, like upturned fists or onion, or often more like a Holland cheese, give a delightful pliancy to the city's panoramas. First of the Moscow sanctuaries is the renowned Church of the Savior, one of the most luxurious temples in the world, a temple proving the warmth of imagination and the love of beauty of the Russian. Built in the form of a Greek cross, perfectly proportioned, its cream-colored marble base and bright domes are a feast of beauty, while its interior is an awe-inspiring medley of precious stones, metals and marbles.

"Kremlin, the heart of Russia's heart, the ancient fortress of the city, Moscow's Acropolis, is the point of greatest interest to the visitor. The Kremlin is the inner circle of Moscow, wherein are situated the treasury, the arsenal, the imperial palace, sacred temples and around which are drawn the heaviest batteries of masonry. Within the confines of the Kremlin, the first city on the site of Moscow grew, the modern town extends in an outer ring around it. Most of the Kremlin escaped unharmed from Napoleon's visitation, though its towers were scarred by the fires which the retreating Russians endeavored to sacrifice their city.

"The largest bell in the world is preserved here in Moscow, with almost enough metal in it to make a modern battle. There are hundreds of relics of Napoleon's visit here, abandoned cannon and cannon balls of the French and their allies. The famous palace in the Kremlin is one of the richest buildings in the world, bulged, decorated and filled with a luxury that is oppressive to those unaccustomed to association in environments of boundless wealth. The treasury of the Kremlin is a marvelous collection of priceless historic relics and souvenirs of the past."

OSOWIEC.

Washington.—Opposing as stubborn a resistance to the armies of the invader as did the Austrian fortress of Przemyśl, the Russian fortress of Osowiec, which forms the subject of today's description, is one of the most important paths. The war primer says:

"Osowiec, about twenty miles inside the Russian frontier, southeast from the East Prussian border and the lake country, guards the important railway approach to Bialostok, and the great Petrograd-Warsaw trunkline, the enting of which is one of the prime objects of the German invaders. Bialostok is thirty-eight miles southwest of Osowiec. Fifty-six miles west of Osowiec, the Germans have penetrated to Ostrowek, thirty miles from the German border, and about thirty miles from the trunkline artery. From Ostrowek, three branch railways join the main line. From Osowiec, a railway passes south, through Bialostok and over the Warsaw-Petrograd line, over a Warsaw-Vilna branch line, through the forest Brest Litewski, upon the trunkline Warsaw-Moscow, to Kholm, a station on the railway Warsaw-Kiev, passing through Lublin and Kholm.

"The little village of Osowiec, with its single street and straggling farms, has little other importance than its military strength. It is situated on the right and lower shore of the Boh river. The fieldworks front toward the northwest and fall back to the river. Just across from Osowiec, upon the left and higher shore of the river, is the larger village of Gorkowsko, to which the defensive works are continued. The Boh is navigable here and part of its shore is steep and easily defensible. Osowiec is one of the more important frontier Russian fortresses."

"ARRAS."

Washington, D. C.—Over the hundreds of miles of body-strewn battlefields in Europe, no more deadly spot could be found during recent fighting than just to the north of Arras, where for more than a month and a half the French have driven home innumerable fearless, determined assaults against almost impregnable field works. More lives have been lost to the square yard of fighting area here, according to dispatches, than upon any other part of the endless battle line. Arras, the point from which the French have been strongly forcing the fighting, is described in a statement just issued by the National Geographic Society.

"Arras, the capital of the French department of Pas-de-Calais, is one of the oldest and most important towns of northern France, and is situated on the right and southern bank of the River Scarpe, at its junction with the Crinchon, partly on heights and partly in a fertile plain. A low line of heights extend to the north of the town, where the present German line runs almost due north to Ypres, in Belgium. Arras is one of the principal stations on the French Northern Railway, being about 137 miles distant from Paris by rail. Brussels lies ninety-seven miles to the northeast of this advance German outpost, while the important city of Amiens is thirty-eight miles to the south-southeast.

"One of the leading grain markets of France was held in this busy city before the war. It lies well in the center of a rich agricultural, grazing and industrial district, and has always been important for its trade and manufactures. Chief among the factory products of Arras were beet-sugar, agricultural implements, hosiery, lace, pottery and leather. As early as the fourth century this little town was famous for its woolen manufactures, a fame that it has lost to the great woolen centers of Britannia across the water. It later became famous wherever luxury held footing for the manufacture of tapestries. Some of the most beautiful worked hangings were produced here up to the Fifteenth century, and so superior were the tapestries of the place, that they were commonly known as arras.

"The lower town was compactly built, its generous appearing homes being constructed of heavy stone. Most of the streets were laid out broad and straight, and Arras made an impression of prosperity and progressiveness upon the visitor. There were a number of fine squares, bordered by beautiful public buildings. It had a population of 25,000 at the outbreak of the war, a population to which bitter necessity was unknown.

"Many an important action in northern France has been fought in and around Arras, a site where the Latin, Celtic and German elements have struggled since the foundation of the Roman Empire. The city belonged to the Spanish branch of the House of Hapsburg until 1640, when Louis XIII of France captured it after a long, severe siege. It was ceded to France by the Treaty of the Pyrenees. The French Revolution and the invasion of the Germans in 1870-1871 caused much suffering among its people. Arras was the birthplace of Maximilien Robespierre, the inspired leader of the 'Terror' in Paris, and also of Joseph Lebon, originally of the ministry, who led the celebrations of the horrible rites of the Revolution in his native city."

HUSBAND RESCUED DESPAIRING WIFE

After Four Years of Discouraging Conditions, Mrs. Bullock Gave Up in Despair. Husband Came to Rescue.

Catron, Ky.—In an interesting letter from this place, Mrs. Bettie Bullock writes as follows: "I suffered for four years, with womanly troubles, and during this time, I could only sit up for a little while, and could not walk anywhere at all. At times, I would have severe pains in my left side.

The doctor was called in, and his treatment relieved me for a while, but I was soon confined to my bed again. After that, nothing seemed to do me any good.

I had gotten so weak I could not stand, and I gave up in despair.

At last, my husband got me a bottle of Cardui, the woman's tonic, and I commenced taking it. From the very first dose, I could tell it was helping me. I can now walk two miles without tiring me, and am doing all my work."

If you are all run down from womanly troubles, don't give up in despair. Try Cardui, the woman's tonic. It has helped more than a million women, in its 50 years of continuous success, and should surely help you, too. Your druggist has sold Cardui for years. He knows what it will do. Ask him. He will recommend it. Begin taking Cardui today.

The 118th annual session of the Bracken Baptist Association opened Wednesday in the First Baptist church of this city.

Promptly at 10:10 o'clock, Moderator C. N. Bollinger called the association to order and opened the services with Song No. 318. Rev. Owen Williams, of the Aberdeen (O.) Baptist church, led the devotional services. Rev. J. S. Wilson, pastor of the Mt. Sterling Baptist church, delivered the introductory sermon, and spoke from Gen. 32:26; 1 Chron. 29:5: "Who is on the Lord's side?" "Who is willing this day to consecrate himself unto the Lord?"

It was a logical and eloquent address. The main thought was "kingdom building."

After the sermon came the reading of letters, which were very interesting. This was followed by the election of officers. C. N. Bollinger and Frank V. Tolle were elected moderators and clerk. The treasurer was referred to a committee on nominations. Then came dinner, served by the ladies of the church. It was a bounteous repast enjoyed by the seventy-seven messengers and 172 guests.

Afternoon Session.

At the opening hour the visitors and messengers were not as quick to assemble as they were in the morning.

A brief summary of the letters read in the morning session show that there are thirty-nine churches, twenty-six reporting as follows for the past year: Church membership, 2,717; Sunday school enrollment, 1,903; pastors' salaries, $8,214.46; given to missionary work, $2,176.91. These figures are approximately correct, four churches report no pastor salary.

The devotional services were led by Rev. B. V. Bolton, pastor of the Chiles and Sharpburg churches. He read the Nineteenth Psalm, emphasizing the fourteenth verse.

Mr. J. H. Hall presented the report of Minister's Aid. The association has added 192 ministers in the past twenty-six years; the past year forty-six ministers have been added, receiving from $4 to $15.50 per month; this requires about $500 per month.

At this point a new church by the name of Pleasant Run, with a membership of forty-two was received. Recognition of visitors, Rev. J. W. Simpson, pastor of Second M. E. church, South, Dr. T. M. Johnson, representing the Baptist World; Dr. W. T. Harvey, pastor of Harrodsburg church; T. J. Currey, Second M. E. church, South were recognized.

At this point the committee on nominations of treasurer nominated John Owens, of the Two Lick church, who was elected, thus completing the roster of officers.

Rev. L. N. Thompson presented a very full report on education. In it he stated that there were ten Baptist schools in Kentucky with an enrollment of 2,450 students, larger than any other school in the state. Rev. Johnson Harvey spoke in reference to the Georgetown College; Rev. Wilhoite spoke of the Onieda school.

Orphans' Home report, read by Rev. A. H. Webb, was excellent. Superintendent A. B. Gardner, of the Kentucky Baptist Children's Home, spoke enthusiastically and eloquently of the home located at Glendale.

At this point the Ladies' Missionary Society returned to the audience room from an excellent session held in the Sunday school room.

Hon. J. W. Black, County Attorney from Morehead, presented the report on Sunday schools. His report disclosed some remarkable facts. He said that within a few miles of Maysville there is a decided opposition to the Sunday school. Within a few miles of Morehead there is a Baptist church of sixty or seventy members in favor of the Sunday school, yet the pastor and two ministers affiliated with the church are opposed. However, this church is not in the association.

The report states that Kentucky has seventy-five associations composed of 1,861 churches; membership of 241,613; Sunday schools with an enrollment of 129,410; an increase of ninety schools and 17,738 enrolled pupils over the number reported last year. The report was one of the best made. Rev. H. M. Estes, Rev. Owen Williams and Rev. Fulton made speeches to the report, which were very good.

The association will hold another session today during which foreign and state missions will be discussed, and during the morning hour there will be a laymen's meeting. In the afternoon home missions and temperance will be the subjects, after which a half hour will be given to miscellaneous business pertaining to the good of the association.

Dr. C. W. McClanahan, of Louisville, is visiting his parents, Mr. and Mrs. B. P. McClanahan, of West Second street. The Doctor is now excellently located at Louisville.

Mr. H. D. Collins, of Higginsport, O., was in the city Wednesday on his way to Paris, Ky., to visit his sons. While here Mr. Collins paid this office a very pleasant call.

MAYSVILLE TAKES TWO GAMES

"Our Boys" Trim Frankfort For Two Games—Winchell Pitches Opener—Team Gone For Eight-Game Series With Portsmouth and Charleston.

Before a fair crowd the Maysville Burley Cubs defeated the Frankfort Lawmakers twice. Both games were filled with good ball playing and some of the plays staged by both teams made the spectators yell for more.

Each team made one run in the first inning. In the fourth Maysville gathered two runs more. J. Devore walked, Tinnin sacrificed, Henderson hit for two, scoring Devore; Kelly doubled, Henderson scoring; Winchell grounded, turned to Kaiser; H. Devore flew to Williams. Maysville, not satisfied, made another in the fifth. Emmer walked, Tipton hit for two, scoring Emmer; DeBerry forced Tipton; J. Devore hit DeBerry; Devore out stealing. Maysville hung up another in the sixth. Tinnin hit through third; Henderson went to second on Jones' wild pitch, Tinnin scoring; Kelly popped to Muller, Winchell rolled, Turner to Monroe; H. Devore ditted the play.

Frankfort got busy in the eighth and annexed one. Jones popped to Henderson; Williams doubled, Angemier singled, Muller singled, Williams scoring; Turner fanned; Bacon popped to Henderson.

The second game was a walkaway for the locals, who started to place the contest in the refrigerator in the first when they rung the bell for the three counts. H. Devore flew to Williams, Emmer walked; Tipton rolled, Henges to Monroe; DeBerry hit to right for two, Emmer scoring; Josh hit to short, Angemier out, DeBerry scoring; Henderson beat out a grounder; Kelly got to first on Henges' error, Josh scoring; Brown rolled, Bacon to Monroe.

Frankfort tallied once in the fourth. Henges beat a slow roller, Jones forced Henges; Angemier singled; Muller forced Angemier, Jones scoring; Turner rolled, Brown to Henderson.

Maysville hung up the Bacon in the sixth. Brown got to first on Monroe's error and took third on Muller's error. Emmer hit for three, sampling home on Turner's error, Brown scoring on the play.

Our Boys came right back in the eighth and placed two on the scoreboard to their credit. Brown ditted, H. Devore singled; Emmer beat out an infield hit; Tipton walked; DeBerry hit through second, H. Devore scoring; Emmer scored on an infield hit by Josh Devore; Tinnin rolled, Henges to Monroe.

NOTES OF THE GAME.

The Frankfort bunch are sure hard workers and will give some one a hard fight for a place in the race.

Emmer is a puzzle to the opposing slab men, as they don't know when he is going to ram the pill for several stations.

H. Devore is the most sure sfielder and the most sensational ever on this diamond.

In the opinion of all the fans, DeBerry is some more huckleberry.

"Yaller" Williams sure has a good disposition, as no amount of kidding from the stands can take that smile off his map.

"Maud" Muller, the Frankfort catcher, looks and acts like Novack, who caught here several seasons ago.

Brown had the Lawmakers guessing. They all were puzzled by his offerings.
